

Manners

ways of behaving toward people, esp. ways that are socially correct and show respect for their comfort and their feelings:

He had the bad manners to keep interrupting whoever was speaking.

In the UK manners are very important

There is a stereotype that British people are good at queueing.

In the UK it is polite to avoid any personal questions and to greet people with a handshake unless they are close friends.

It is also polite to say please and thank you in every circumstance including when you cross the road.

Good table manners are also needed at dinner parties, for example not putting your elbows on the table and not eating until everyone has received their food.

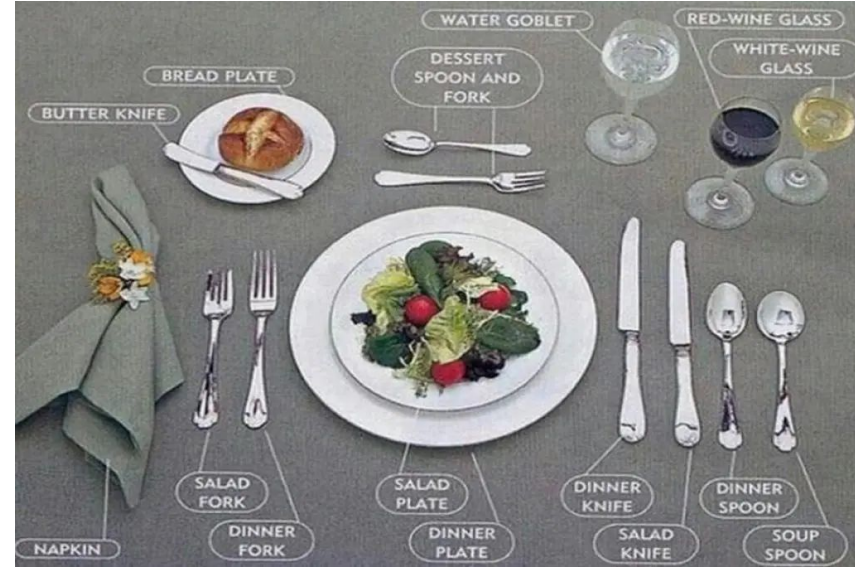

In the UK it is bad manners to:

Stare

Spit in the street

Eat loudly

To be overfamiliar

Tell me about manners in Spain?

- Are there certain things that are polite or rude?
 - Do you think that it is the same as in the UK?
- If you had a friend visiting from another country and they were worried about being rude in Spain what would you tell them are the most important manners in Spain?

Do you agree?
